Big Names in Baseball

Big names will appear on the line-ups of the various visiting teams. Indian Head aggregation is fresh from a spring-training program in Florida, and enjoys a close tie-in with the Rogers Hornsby baseball circuits of the States; Ladd Field of the U.S. Airforce Alaska command boasts a team that placed in the quarter-finals at the mammoth American baseball tournament at the New York polo grounds last year; Sceptre, Sask., has two big-time hockey players, Metro Prysti and Bert Olmstead of the Chicago Black Hawks, on their roster; and so it goes down the line.

One thing is sure. With the baseball talent from central Alberta and the outside teams appearing here, fans at the ball tournament will see the finest ball ever witnessed in this area."

A story in the June 8th edition of the paper noted the last minute preparations, including bleachers to seat more than 6-thousand, seating for another 3-thousand, backstops and diamonds being measured and built, and plans to feed the expected, large crowds. A separate story noted:

"Ladies of the town and district are planning to man the pavilion counter and at least four 'grease spots' on the baseball grounds ... a partial list of what is being ordered: Potatoes, 1,500 lbs.; cold meats, 1,100 lbs.; tomatoes, 300 lbs.; pies, 1,000; parkerhouse rolls, 6,000 ... "

The event also featured an aerial display by the R.C.A.F. and a simulated battle by members of the Calgary Tank regiment. Public dances were held each evening and an industrial exhibition was also part of the show. The Edmonton Chamber of Commerce sponsored a "cavalcade of good will" with more than one hundred cars expected to make the excursion to Lacombe. The town declared June 21st as a civic holiday.

The California Mohawks and Sceptre split first prize money when rain prevented the championship game.

Mohawks advanced to the final with an easy, 15-0 win over Stettler. The collegians scored 13 runs in the first inning and coasted through the five inning contest.
